Ellie and the Harpemaker
by Hazel Prior (Berkley)

"When Ellie walks into the Harp Barn, her life is bound to change. Dan the harpmaker is a sensitive soul who gives Ellie a harp. Ellie's husband Clive thinks the gift is inappropriate and doesn't support her desire to play, so she takes lessons behind his back. An engaging and tender book for fans of Fredrik Backman and Graeme Simsion."

—Kathleen Harriott, Punta Gorda Public Library, Punta Gorda, FL

Life and Other Inconveniences
by Kristan Higgins
(Berkley)

"Explores the complex relationships between caregivers and their children, as four generations of one family reflect on their past, and the failing health of the family matriarch looms large. For readers who like fully developed characters with real-world problems, and fans of Jennifer Weiner and Susan Elizabeth Phillips."

—Amanda Kowalce, Green Hills Public Library District, Palos Hills, IL

Sapphire Flames
by Ilona Andrews
(Avon)

"The fifth Hidden Legacy paranormal adventure requires middle sister Catalina, now head of House Baylor, to use all her skills and poise to make the right decisions for herself and her family. For fans of Nalini Singh’s Psy/Changeling series and Patricia Briggs’ Moon Called."

—Katherine Phenix, Rangeview Library District, Adams County, CO

The Last Widow
by Karin Slaughter
(William Morrow)

"A fast-paced thriller in the Will Trent series that will have you following an investigation filled with secrets, lies, and threats. For readers who like Tana French and John Sanford."

—Dan Brooks, Wake County Public Library, Raleigh, NC

The Right Swipe
by Alisha Rai
(Avon)

"An intelligent, multicultural contemporary romance. Rhi, CEO of Crush dating app, and Samson, NFL star, embark on a joint project that turns into more than just talk. "Issues of #MeToo in the tech industry and the NFL’s concussion problem are woven in. For readers of the Forbidden Heart series, Elle Wright, and Alyssa Cole."

—Jessica Werner, The Seattle Public Library, Seattle, WA

Inland
by Téa Obreht
(Random House)

"Obreht lays a mythical voice over an already dreamlike landscape of drought in Arizona. A mother and half-grown sons generate a powerful dynamic not often explored, and the youngest, who knows about scary beasts, brings magic and intuition. A journey into a barren world, inside and out. For fans of Larry Watson and Alice Hoffman."

—Lynn Welch, Herrick Memorial Library, Wellington, OH

The Swallows
by Lisa Lutz
(Ballantine Books)

"A dark, satirical book that centers around a school and the revenge that we seek in times of humiliation. It’s a twisty read that will have you following an investigation filled with secrets, lies, and threats. For readers who liked Prep by Curtis Sittenfeld and Small Admissions by Amy Poeppel."

—Kathryn Neal, Skiatook Library, Skiatook, OK

Things You Save in a Fire
by Katherine Center
(St. Martin’s Press)

"A traumatic event as a young woman has left firefighter Cassie with a hard shell which breaks apart as she learns about forgiveness, love, and friendship. With gripping firefighting scenes and a love story, this is perfect for fans of Jojo Moyes, or Manissa de los Santos."

—Alissa Williams, Morton Public Library, Morton, IL

The Warehouse
by Rob Hart
(Crown)

"Paxton and Zinnia are new employees at Cloud where they work, live, and have their productivity and location tracked through their smartwatches. This near-future dystopian sci-fi thriller made me levy of ever shopping online again. For fans of The Circle by Dave Eggers and Notes from the Internet Apocalypse by Wayne Gladstone."

—Dan Brooks, Wake County Public Library, Raleigh, NC

The Whisper Man
by Alex North
(Celadon Books)

"Tom and his son Jake move to Featherbank to rebuild their life after the death of Tom’s wife; unknown to them, the town has a dark history, another little boy has gone missing, and Jake begins to hear whispers in his new house. For fans of Joe Hill and Paul Tremblay."

—Jennifer Winberry, Hunterdon County Library, Flemington, NJ

Read-alikes provided by the LibraryReads Community.

Find out more at www.LibraryReads.org
The Perfect Wife
A Novel
by JP Delaney
(Ballantine Books)
"Abbie wakes up with no memory of how she ended up in the hospital. Her tech wizard husband tells her that after a horrific accident, he spent five years trying to bring her back. But is Abby's return a miracle of science, or a nightmare? Delaney's latest psychological thriller keeps you guessing."
—Joan Meis Wilson, Needles Public Library, Needles, CA

The Turn of the Key
by Ruth Ware
(Gallery/Scout Press)
"Rowan travels to northern Scotland to nanny for a rich, eccentric family; a seemingly perfect job until everything unravels. The isolated location, creepy gothic vibe, unreliable narrator, and brilliant twists keep readers on edge from start to finish in a pulse-pounding read."
—Cyndi Larsen, Avon Free Public Library, Avon, CT

Read-alikes provided by the LibraryReads Community.