July 2020 - The top ten books published this month that librarians across the country love.

Boyfriend Material
by Alexis Hall
(Sourcebooks Landmark)

Unusually proper Oliver and drama-laden Luc are extreme opposites. Despite a case of annoyance at first sight, the two antagonists reluctantly agree that faking a relationship might help each of them out of a bind. Hall crafts a well-paced relationship that will have readers completely invested in a happy ever after. Perfect for fans of If I Never Met You and Royal Blood.

—Sharon Layburn, South Huntington Public Library, Huntington Station, NY
NovelList read-alike: If I Never Met You by Alyssa Owens

The Lost and Found Bookshop
by Susan Wiggs
(William Morrow)

"Personal tragedy turns Natalie's life upside down and leads her back to her childhood home, including her family's beloved homegrown bookstore. Natalie faces the decline of her grandfather's health, a building in need of repair, and a business in the red but also finds unexpected love. Give to readers who liked How to Find Love in a Bookshop and The Readers of Broken Wheel."

—Joyce Livingston, Collinsville Community Library, Brogue, PA
NovelList read-alike: The Bookshop of Yesterdays by Amy Meyerson

Crooked Hallelujah
by Kelli Jo Ford
(Grove Press)

"A well-crafted story of identity, survival, and loyalty that explores the terrain of love and heartbreak, loss and displacement for four generations of Native American women across four decades. Finding their own sources of strength, these proud, fierce women magnetically draw the reader in. For readers who enjoy Louise Erdrich and Diane Glancy."

—Janet Schneider, Peninsula Public Library, Lawrence, NY
NovelList read-alike: Where the Dead Sit Talking by Brandon Hobson

The Only Good Indians
by Stephen Graham Jones
(Gallery/Saga Press)

"An own voices horror novel that begins with four young Native American men on a hunting trip that will haunt each of them in unimaginable ways. For fans of Owl Goingback's Coyote Rage."

—Sarah Fetzer, West Palm Beach City Library, West Palm Beach, FL
NovelList read-alike: Boy in the Box by Marc E. Fitch

Survivor Song
by Paul Tremblay
(William Morrow)

"The gripping story opens with a rampant strain of virus (in this case rabies), followed by quarantines, lockdowns, fear, and irrational behavior. It's alarmingly close to home. For fans of Severance by Dan and Contagion by Robin Cook."

—Sandra Woodbury, Burlington Public Library, Burlington, MA
NovelList read-alike: Sealed by Naomi Booth

The Heir
by Heather Cocks & Jessica Morgan
(Grand Central Publishing)

"This sequel to The Royal We follows Nick and Bex through the first year of their marriage—a challenging time for anyone, let alone a royal couple whose wedding was disrupted by a sex scandal. As they settle into their new home, they uncover a secret that could change the future of Britain. Fans of Royal Wedding (Cabot) and Romances (Hawkins) will enjoy this funny and sensitive novel."

—Heather Bistyga, Anderson County Library, Anderson, SC
NovelList read-alike: American Royals by Katherine McGee

Memorial Drive
by Natasha Trethewey
(Ecco)

"Explores the author's relationship with her mother, piecing together events that led up to her mother's murder at the hands of her stepfather. For fans of No Visible Bruises by Rachel Louise Snyder and The Red Parts by Maggie Nelson."

—Ann-Marie Anderson, Tigard Public Library, Tigard, OR
NovelList read-alike: The Bookshop of Yesterdays by Amy Meyerson

What You Wish For
by Katherine Center
(St. Martin's Press)

"Sam thought the dynamic Duncan Carpenter was out of her life forever, until he returns to the school at which she's a librarian and makes her think she might just get her happily ever after. For fans of Jojo Moyes and Rebecca Serle."

—Tracy Babiasz, Chapel Hill Public Library, Chapel Hill, NC
NovelList read-alike: Josh and Hazel's Guide to Not Dating by Christina Lauren

Boyfriend Material
by Alexis Hall
(Sourcebooks Landmark)

"Eagerly awaited by wizard Harry Dresden's legion of fans, this 16th book in the series is definitely worth the wait. Wonderful scenes feature magical illusions, and many familiar characters return for peace talks in Chicago. Not much is peaceful for Harry, as the wizards might kick him off the White Council, Bernie Queen Mab wants him to do a couple of favors for vampire Lara, and Harry’s half-brother is in prison after an assassination attempt. For series fans of The Hallowed, The Iron Druid Chronicles, and The Nightside."

—Brenda O'Brien, Woodridge Public Library, Woodridge, IL
NovelList read-alike: The Arcadia Project series by Mishell Baker

Find out more at www.LibraryReads.org

Made in LibraryAware - www.libraryaware.com
It’s been several years since Malorie and her two young children arrived at The Janet Tucker School For the Blind. Olympia and Tom, now teenagers, crave to see the world. But at what cost? Malerman is a master of suspenseful terror and escalating mistrust. Unlike Birdbox, this latest installment is also filled with hope.

Malorie
A Bird Box Novel
by Josh Malerman
(Del Rey)

Kate Burkholder comes to the aid of an old colleague who’s now on the run from her own vice unit in this slow-burn crime thriller. Many series start to lose steam when they’ve been around as long as this one, but Castillo just keeps improving with every book.

Outsider
A Novel of Suspense
by Linda Castillo
(Minotaur Books)

Two babies are switched at birth in the NICU. One has severe disabilities, the other doesn’t. Two years later, the families learn of the mistake and their lives—and lies—become more entangled. Highly recommended for fans of psychological thrillers who are tired of typical plotlines.

Playing Nice
A Novel
by JP Delaney
(Ballantine Books)

“Two babies are switched at birth in the NICU. One has severe disabilities, the other doesn’t. Two years later, the families learn of the mistake and their lives—and lies—become more entangled. Highly recommended for fans of psychological thrillers who are tired of typical plotlines.”

—Kelly Verheyden, San Diego Public Library, San Diego, CA

Read-alike: In the Bleak Midwinter by Julia Spencer Fleming
Read-alike: A Killing in the Hills by Julia Keller
Read-alike: A Cold Day for Murder by Dana Stabenow

Find out more at www.LibraryReads.org